Education and the Family

A recommitment to the role of the family in education will form the theme of the Eleventh Annual Cultural Conference of the Gabriel Dumont Institute.

The Institute, which serves the education and cultural needs of the Metis and Non-Status Indian community of Saskatchewan, is Aboriginal controlled and unique in Canada. More than 500 adult students enrol in the Institute's community based programs each year.

Programming at the University level is fully certified through the Universities of Regina or Saskatchewan and in the past year included: SUNTEP, a four year teacher education program; Human Justice; Local Government Administration; and, Business Management.

At the Technical level, the Institute's programs are certified through the Saskatchewan Institute of Applied Science and Technology (SIASST) and include such offerings as Forestry Technology and Chemical Dependency Worker training.

Preparatory work this year has included programs leading to study in policing, nursing, and literacy, as well as high school completion.

In addition, the Institute has been contracted by the province to deliver services to Aboriginal students attending SIASST and to establish the first community training residence for female offenders in Saskatchewan.

As an organization that is directed by the local people and communities it serves, it is fitting to pay tribute this year to the Family — a key element in educational success and cultural transmission. Please join us!

Cultural and Educational Workshops

1:00 – 1:45 p.m. Plenary Session:

Staying in School – The Road to Success

Presenter: Doug Breese, CEIC

This session will examine Federal strategies aimed at preventing learners from leaving school.

2:00 – 4:30 p.m. Workshops:

- Labour Force Development Strategy (LFDS)
 Presenters: Howard Green and Steve Valentine, CEIC
 This workshop will deal with plans for training and employment of Saskatchewan's Aboriginal peoples in the 90's and the response of the federal government to demands for more local control.
 - Aboriginal Writing and Story Telling
 Facilitator: Anne Dorion
 This workshop will focus on the cultural arts of Indigenous Peoples in this area including poetry, storytelling, and other works. Presenters will read or recite their works, followed by a discussion of how Aboriginal literature and oral traditions and concepts may be enhanced in our communities.
 - Healing and the Family
 Presenter: Rupert Arcand
 This workshop will explore men's and women's issues from traditional and contemporary perspectives. A wholistic definition of the healthy family breaks the cycle of addiction, abuse and dependency.
 - Our Metis Heritage (Of Beads, Silk and Quills)
 Presenters: Calvin and Sherry Racette
 Metis art forms evolved during the fur trade era. Specific designs and motifs emerged as a distinct Metis tradition. A verbal and slide presentation will show the evolution from the historic to the contemporary.
 - Community Language Retention
 Presenters: Liz Troyer and Cathy Littlejohn
 A "How To" workshop for initiating Community Language Retention projects. This workshop is designed for those who are interested in learning how to develop a proposal for a Language Retention Project in their community. Examples of successful projects will be presented.
